Toxin Toxout, Rick Smith and Bruce Lourie's follow-up to their international bestselling Slow Death by Rubber Duck, published in Canada on Dec 31st and in Australia on November 20th. This time around the environmentalist duo focus on just how to cleanse your body of the harmful toxins they showed to be common to near every mass-produced everyday products, from cleaning sprays to children's toys to takeout containers, in their first book, therefore making it a worthwhile read for just about everyone.

Since its publication, here's what early readers have had to say:

"[A] distressing and amusing adventure on the road to detoxing individuals and the planet."
—NOW Magazine

"If you pick up the book, I promise you this: you'll laugh, you'll wince, and you'll learn a hell of a lot."
—Adria Vasil, Ecoholic

"If you want to reduce your risk of getting cancer, asthma, allergies and a host of other medical problems, read this book." —Toronto Star

"Ruthlessly probing and logical ... These authors have created a truly indispensable and enlightening guide to living in the 21st century." —William Davis, MD, author of the #1 New York Times bestseller Wheat Belly: Lose the Wheat, Lose the Weight, and Find Your Path Back to Health

"Toxin Toxout admirably demonstrates how important our everyday product choices are—from the food we buy to the cars we choose to drive ... a much-needed guide on how to live—and maintain—a toxin-free lifestyle." —Dr. Natasha Turner, author of the #1 national bestseller The Hormone Diet

"We all owe a debt of gratitude to Bruce Lourie and Rick Smith for slowly poisoning themselves for our benefit. And perhaps even more, for figuring out how to unpoison themselves. This is a fascinating book that has made me change my daily routines." —A.J. Jacobs, New York Times bestselling author of Drop Dead Healthy, My Life as an Experiment

We were thrilled to see Above All Things by Tanis Rideout on the longlist for the 2014 IMPAC Dublin Literary Award.

As you're probably aware, the IMPAC Dublin Award is given annually. The author of the winning title is awarded €100,000, unless the book is an English translation, in which case €75,000 is awarded to the author and €25,000 to the translator.

The 2014 shortlist will be announced on April 9th and the winner on June 12th.

Dr. William Davis' new cookbook, Wheat Belly 30-Minute (or Less!) Cookbook, debuted on the Jan 14, 2014 New York Times Bestseller List at #15. Wheat Belly was also there at #18, for its 102nd week on the list.

The U.S. edition of The Supercharged Hormone Diet by Dr. Natasha Turner debuted on the Jan 12, 2014 New York Times Hardcover Advice Bestseller List at position #17

Kawade Shobo Shinsha's Japanese edition of L. Marie Adeline's S.E.C.R.E.T., which has sold into 30 territories thus far, just about knocked our socks off when it came in the mail. Veering away from the title's internationally popular cover featuring variations of the protagonist's charm bracelet against a purple background, this electrically colourful edition immediately piques interest, calling to anyone interested in a fun, sexy read. The neon pink interior is just the icing on the cake!

WE'RE EXCITED ABOUT

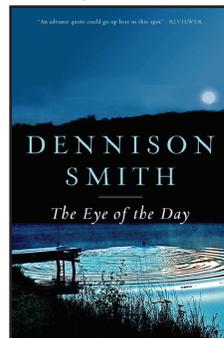

OUT APR 8, 2014

Claire Battershill's
Circus
McClelland & Stewart

Coming off a year when Alice Munro won the Pulitzer Prize for Literature and Lynn Coady's collection Hellgoing claimed the Scotiabank Giller Prize, we think Claire Battershill may be the next breakout Canadian short story writer.

OUT JAN 28, 2014

Dennison Smith's
The Eye of the Day
HarperCollins Canada

"[S]urprisingly beautiful in its sheer coldness, from its description of the heartless Vermont winter to the chilly and dysfunctional relationships among Aubrey and his family. Smith's novel is a riveting narrative of survival, self-knowledge, and the possibility of second chances."
